THE CHILDREN.

CHARLES DICKENS.

When the lessons and tasks are all ended
And the school for the day is dismissed,
And the little ones gather around me
To bid me good-night and be kissed;
Oh, the little white arms that encircle
My neck in a tender embrace!
Oh, the smiles that are halos of Heaven,
Shedding sunshine of love on my face!

And when they are gone, I sit dreaming
Of my childhood, too lovely to last;
Of love that my heart will remember
When it wakes to the pulse of the past.
Ere the world and its wickedness made me
A partner and of sorrow and sin,
When the glory of God was about me,
And the glory of gladness within

Oh, my heart grows weak as a woman's
And the fountains of feeling will flow
When I think of the paths steep and stony,
Where the feet of the dear ones must go;
Of the mountains of sin hanging o'er them,
Of the tempest of Fate blowing wild;
Oh, there is nothing on earth half so holy
As the innocent heart of a child!

They are idols of heart and of household;
They are angels of God in disguise;
His sunlight still sleeps in their tresses,
His glory still gleams in their eyes;
Oh, those traits from home and from heaven,
They have made me more manly and mild,
And I know now how Jesus could liken
The kingdom of God to a child.

I ask not a life to the dear ones
All radiant, as others have done,
But that life may have just enough shadow
To temper the glare of the sun;
I would pray God to guard them from evil,
But my prayer would bound back to myself;
Ah! a seraph may pray for a sinner,
But a sinner must pray for himself.

The twig is so easily banded,
I have banished the rule of the rod;
I have taught them the goodness of knowledge,
They have taught me the goodness of God;
My heart is a dungeon of darkness,
Where I shut them from breaking a rule;
My frown is sufficient correction;
My love is the law of the school.

I shall leave the old home in the autumn,
To traverse his threshold no more;
Ah! how I shall sigh for the dear ones,
That meet me each morn at the door!
I shall miss the "good-nights" and the kisses,
And the gush of their innocent glee,
The group of the green, and the flowers
That are brought every morning to me.

I shall miss them at morn and at even,
Their song in the school and the street
I shall miss the low hum of the voices,
And the tramp of their delicate feet,
When the lessons and tasks are all ended,
And death says, "The school is dismissed!"
May the little ones gather around me,
To bid me good-night and be kissed.

Items from the "State of Lewis."

VANCEBURG, Ky., February 18, 1882.
John Cox's goat has been transported for wilful destruction of property and other misdemeanors. As a kid, it was the pet and companion of all the children in the West-end and was a welcome guest in most households. But age and bad associations of late barred his goatship from his former walks and youthful relations.

Last Sunday while the family of "W. H. Fitch were at church, his goatship made his way into the house through the parlor window and after making way with and overturning choice flowers and devouring artificial grasses, a large quantity of bric-a-brac was demolished. Becoming envious of his own reflection he went through the parlor mirror, and not satisfied with the destruction made seeing a country picture on the wall representing sheep, he turned his battery upon it and mounting the piano with a run and jump planted his horns through the picture. When discovered by the family he was on the mantel piece taking distances to the suspended lamp, the only article in the apartment that escaped destruction.

The last seen of this domestic disturber he was roped down in a Kinny wagon, belonging to Sam Bate who was taking him to improve a cross in the mountain sheep. The product will be mule mutton a dish much relished by Scotch Highlanders.

The New Testament, revised version, is having an effect in the M. E. church, where immersion was seldom, if ever, practiced. On Monday several persons were baptized in the Ohio. It was a new and big contract for our plucky little preacher—a light weight—to tackle two hundred pounds of humanity in the swift current of the river. Brother Alfred Harrison, was on hand, however, to anchor down. He uses both arms and don't trust to chances, especially with the sisters. Both bury the candidates face against the current who soon coming out of the water, mouth and nostrils, externally and internally are copiously deluged. An experienced Baptist would reverse the penitent. The M. E. mode however, will be improved by practice.

The St. Valentino Masquerade at the Bank Hotel was well attended. The characters were well taken and well delineated. It was a happy affair and terminated most successfully. But we must record an incident not down on the programme. Two tobacco growers who were camping with a load to be delivered next day met the hideous maskers and were told they were small-pox patients, who were permitted to meet only at night. They took fright, left for home and made thirteen miles in very quick time. A neighbor who had had the disease came into town and delivered the tobacco for the boys and returned with the money. As he was aching to have some fun he couldn't leave without first giving the item to the BULLETIN's representative.

Treed by Alligators.

A man who attempted last summer to cross Caddo lake, in Texas, in a skiff containing a quarter of beef was actually pursued by a school of alligators. When about a quarter of a mile from the shore eight of the monsters, attracted by the fresh beef, attacked the boat, endeavoring to upset it. By hard rowing the boatman reached a cypress tree some distance from shore, which he seized, and abandoned the skiff. He remained in the tree until the next day, when two fishermen, who were crossing the lake, heard his cries and went to his assistance. The alligators attacked the rescuers, but by a dexterous use of their oars and a double-barreled shotgun they succeeded in keeping the enemy at bay until the unfortunate man, more dead than alive, could be gotten out of the tree and rowed safely to shore.

Speakers of the House.

Andrew Stevenson, of Virginia, was Speaker of the Twentieth, Twenty-first, Twenty-second and Twenty-third Congresses. Nathaniel Macon, of North Carolina; Schuyler Colfax, of Indiana; James G. Blaine, of Maine; and Samuel J. Randall, of Pennsylvania, have each held the office three terms. Henry Clay was Speaker of the Twelfth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth and Sixteenth Congresses. F. A. Muhlenburg, of Pennsylvania; Jonathan Dayton, of New Jersey; Joseph B. Varnum, of Massachusetts; James K. Polk, of Tennessee, and Lynn Boyd, of Kentucky each presided over Congress for two terms.

The House Banking and Currency Committee has decided to report favorably a bill providing for the redemption of the trade dollar with the standard, the redeemed trade dollars to be regarded as bullion. The amount subject to exchange will be $9,000,000.

Gall Hamilton and Mrs. Blaine, in looking through an old shop, found a dirt obscured painting, and purchased it for a song. When cleaned it was found to be, it is reported, the work of that painter of slim and pretty women, Sir Peter Lely.

Lady customer: "Will you please direct me to the dress department?" Obliging floor walker: "Certainly; walk this way." Lady customer: "My dear sir, I couldn't walk that way if I practiced two years."

A new work on etiquette says: "Soup must be eaten with a spoon." Persons who are in the habit of eating soup with a fork or a carving knife will be slow to adopt these new fangled ideas.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

MONDAY EVENING, FEB. 20, 1882.

THE Chill-Peru business promises to lead to a war, after all—but the hostilities are confined to our own country, between the Republican factions.

THERE is the authority of careful Republican newspapers like the Chicago Tribune and the Cincinnati Gazette for the statement there is to be war between Mr. Blaine and the Administration. The ostensible issue will be the foreign policy of the former, but the real quarrel will be for the control of the Republican party.

CONGRESS has been in session two months. There has been an immense amount of talk, and never in the history of the house has such a flood of bills been poured in. But talk is cheap, and most of the bills are still cheaper. The actual amount of work accomplished is very small. Both houses are far behindhand and are evidently preparing to extend the session far into the summer.

THE attention of Republicans who are talking of dissections in the democratic ranks is called to the following. It is a statement from Thomas Mr. Nicol, one of General Garfield's private secretaries, and is addressed to the Stalwarts. It appeared in the New York Tribune and was endorsed by that paper editorially: "All you who glory in the name of Stalwart, and who took part in the villification and abuse of President Garfield last summer, who sought to control his official action or degrade and destroy his character and reputation, you are responsible for his murder. His blood is on the garments of the whole gang of you, and you cannot wipe it off. You have been dealt with very tenderly touching your grave responsibility for this crime, but everybody knows you are guilty, and you feel it yourselves in your innermost souls. It was your abuse and denunciation that 'inspired' Guiteau to 'remove' the President as a 'political necessity,' and you will not much longer be permitted to hide the stains upon your hands, or to distract attention from them, by raising the dust around the heels of Blaine; by throwing mud at Sherman or heaping ridicule on me. Your crime was not merely the murder of a man; it is the transfer of the government by murder to the hands of a faction of the party which, if the question could have been submitted to the people at the time it was done would not have received one vote in a thousand. One would think that with such a fact hanging over your heads to the clear daylight of public knowledge, you would have sense enough, though destitute of all decency, to enjoy the lease of power the assassin gave you which the law allows, without persistently villifying the chosen friends and associates of your victim, who was the nation's choice. Why, you are the most stupid fools in the world to keep on provoking discussions of these old matters. You stand as acknowledged criminals, morally responsible for and guilty of Garfield's murder, but against you, on account of your friends and the good name of the community, the prosecuting witnesses are loth to proceed. But when you treat mercy as cowardice, and to guilt add insolence and defiance, you are no longer entitled to forbearance. So now, if you want a reconsideration and discussion of the whole subject, proceed with your abuse. If you want the whole tune played over again, with occasional variations, in pertinent and truthful connection, which were omitted before, keep on calling for it, and it shall not be my fault if you are not gratified with a response."

CUTTING AT THE JAIL.

"Barney" Stockdale Slashed with a Knife for Resenting an Insult to His Wife.

At the jail, Sunday afternoon, between three and four o'clock, W. A. Stockdale, one of the prisoners, was cut twice in the left side with a small pocket-knife in the hands of Frank Day, another of the inmates. The wounds are severe, but are not considered serious. The facts as we gather them by a visit to the jail are as follows: It seems Mrs. Stockdale was visiting her husband at the time named, and was offended by the vulgar conduct of Day, who was confined in adjoining cell. Stockdale resented the insult to his wife and applied severe epithets to the offender, who drew a knife and inflicted the wounds as stated. Mrs. Stockdale is a lady and a true wife whose devotion to her unfortunate husband, has won for her the respect and sympathy of all who know her. The insult to her was the act of a brute and merited the severest treatment.

DAY'S STATEMENT.

Fraank Day, who told his story to a representative of the BULLETIN, is supposed to be a resident of Cincinnati, and was convicted at the last term of the circuit court, of breaking into a store at Dover, and was sentenced to the penitentiary for the term of two years. He obtained a new trial and is awaiting his examination again at the next sitting of the court. He said he had no intention of offering any indignity to the lady, and so explained to Stockdale, who refused to receive his explanation and began choking him. Being a smaller man than Stockdale and under treatment of a physician for rheumatism, to protect himself he drew his knife and cut him. But Stockdale denies this and asserts that he was cut before he laid his hands upon Day. The case is one for the grand jury to investigate.

He was at one time a prominent and successful business man of this city, and during his whole life was distinguished for his integrity of character and for his generous and genial qualities. His death will bring sorrow to many friends. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon from the residence.

HORACE JANUARY Recorder.

Fatal Shooting.

MT. STERLING, KY., February 20, 1882.—Near Hazel Green, Wolfe county, Wilburn Day, shot and fatally wounded Gbo. Fortney. The tragedy grew out of an old feud.

Five men confined in the jail at Vanceburg, serving out a sentence for wheat stealing, escaped Friday night by cutting a hole through the wall.

Sentenced to Hang.

LANCASTER, KY., February 20th, 1882.—William Austin, the murderer of his aunt Best Land, has been tried, convicted and sentenced to the gallows. The execution is fixed for April 18th.

High Water.

MEMPHIS, TENN., February 20th, 1882.—The break in the levee near Austin, Miss., is nearly three miles long. The levee at Laconia Circle is also broken, and the country there is under water. Planters are busy trying to save their stock, which are being boated away to the high lands. At Helena, Ark., the water has backed up into the city until a great portion of it is covered to a depth of four feet and the citizens are obliged to use boats to get about. Planting will be delayed this season.

Old Mortality Redivivus.

From the Morning Call.

Who, Sir?—The Courier-Journal says that communications in regard to the proposed centennial celebration at the Blue Licks should be addressed to "W. D. Hooser," of the Mason County Historical Society. "Hooser" is evidently a misprint for Hixson. William Dimmitt Hixson is one of the most remarkable men in the State. An excellent classical scholar, a clever mathematician, a ready and perspicuous writer, an indefatigable worker, and a thoroughly conscientious man, he seems to have every essential qualification for his chosen field of labor—the investigation of questions relating to the early local history of the State. There is scarcely a circuit or county clerk in Kentucky that is not familiar with the venerable, but still blooming visage of this Old Mortality of the West. Mr. Hixson was a gallant soldier in the Confederate army, and to this day carries upon his left shoulder a painful reminder of the perilous service that he has seen. He is exceedingly abstemious in his habits, is somewhat eccentric in his manners, is an active and enduring pedestrian, wears no beard, never swears, ignores the fashions, eschews aesthetics, is strict in his morals, and liberal in his religious views. Though a contemporary of our grandfathers he is the youngest looking man in the State. Long may he uprear his unwrinkled front!

BORN.

To the wife of J. B. Fristoe, February 18, 1882, a daughter, weight nine pounds—"Family House" doing well.

DIED.

At Augusta, Ky., February 16, 1882, MAGGIE only child of T. H. and Mary L. Boude.

USEFUL HINTS.

A SOLUTION of cyanide of potassium is the best of poison to kill insects of any kind.

HANGING-BASKET.—Bore three holes through any pretty shell you chance to have, and put in three red cords to hang it up by. Fill it with wet sand, and arrange ferns, autumn leaves or everlasting flowers in it.

To CLEAN old lamp-burners, wash them in ashes and water and they will come out bright as new. Many times a burner is condemned because the light is poor, when, having clogged up with sediment, the wick is at fault.

SCENT SACHET.—Two pieces of blue or pink satin, three inches square. Sew into a tiny bag, and put in three layers of cotton filled with sachet powder. Sew the open end together, and quill white silk lace around the edge. Paste an embossed floral motto on one or both sides, and you have a pretty addition for a writing desk, glove or handkerchief box.

A SIMPLE FILTER.—A correspondent of the Baltimore Sun thus describes a filter which he says he uses with perfect success for all the water his family requires. It is a gallon glass funnel with a small piece of sponge in the bottom, on which rest half a dozen slender sticks to facilitate the percolation, these being also placed at intervals all around a piece of muslin a foot or two square. The muslin is filled with, say, a pint of closely-powdered charcoal. Through this he filters the water. At first a little of the charcoal passes through, but it soon becomes a perfect filter.

What Egyptians Eat.

The modern Egyptians are, in general, extremely temperate in regard to food. Even the richest among them take little pride, and perhaps experience as little delight, in the luxuries of the table. Their dishes mostly consist of pilans, soups and stews, prepared principally of onions, cucumbers, and other cold vegetables, mixed with a little meat, cut into small pieces. On special occasions, however, a whole sheep is placed on the festive board; but, during several of the hottest months of the year, the richest restrict themselves entirely to a vegetable diet. The poor are contented with a little oil or sour milk, in which they may dip their bread.

The language applied to gems is purely fanciful, as is that of flowers. It is an old nonsense that has come down from the olden time, and the sentiment ascribed to precious stones is as old as the tenth century, and for centuries was the controlling feature in making gifts of gems. The following is the imagined sentiment: Garnet, constancy and fidelity; Amethyst, sincerity; Bloodstone, courage and presence of mind; Diamond, innocence; Emerald, success in love; Agate, health and long life; Cornelian, contented mind; Sardonyx, conjugal felicity; Chrysolyte, antidote against madness; Opal, hope; Topaz, fidelity; Turquoise, prosperity; Pearl, purity.

A boy came home from school much excited, and told his father that he believed all human beings were descended from apes, which made the old man so mad that he replied, angrily: "That may be the case with you, but it ain't with me, I can tell you that, now."

Said Thomas Jones,
In gleeful tones,
Unto his son and heir:
"Your nose's exact
Like mine—a fact,
My son, I do declare!"
"Not quite so red,"
Young hopeful said
(At daddy's nose he squinted)
"Some folks prefer
High colors, sir,
But I like sober tints!"

The eminent physiologist, Dr. Carpenter, writes to the London Times the results of his observations during a period of half a century, on vaccination. He believes in it, thinks that cowpox and smallpox are essentially the same disease, and he further favors re-vaccination. He believes that re-vaccination at the age of eighteen would almost exterminate smallpox in the British Isles.

BATCHELDER'S

Ventilated Egg Case.

Patented February 15, 1881.

Indispensible to Merchants Shippers And Producers.

The outside frame of this carrier contains five trays, held in place by fasteners at end of case, as seen in cut. These Trays are constructed in reversible halves. The above cut shows one whole tray filled ready to be placed in case, each egg resting in its cardboard socket in such a manner as to be readily counted, candled, or transferred from tray to tray, or case to case, without rehandling.

For cold storage this case will store 60 dozen with racks made to receive the half trays, hence this is the cheapest storage case manufactured, saving largely in space.

The manner of holding the eggs on end prevents oscillation, adding, or breakage, and adds greatly to their freshness when carried long in storage. Size of 30 dozen No. 1 cases 25x12x14, weighs 20 pounds.

PRICES IN CHICAGO.

Shipper's No. 1, 30 doz. Case with Fillers complete - 65 Cents.
